DAYS OF QUEERNESS

The Twelve(ish) days of Xmas

Welcome! Christmas is for the gays. Jesus x Judas forever. This is our vibrant celebration of LGBTQ+ experiences. Thanks for reading stories, art, and perspectives. Spoofing on the famous carol, each contribution represents a different queer narrative. We hope our zine brings some rainbow pride to your mainstream holiday cheer.

Zine Action Group!

ZAG! is a student zine collective based near Rutgers University. We are dedicated to spreading as much independent media as possible. Every month we collaborate on a big zine!

This is ZAG!'s third monthly zine, for December 2023. Made in New Jersey. Published digitally and in small print runs on the university printers in early January 2024.

Special thanks to our council members:

Letter From The Editor

Happy Yule! This zine has been a doozy to get out. This was our first semester as a club, and we were NOT prepared for how much finals week would destroy all us, artists... and stem students... and general weirdos... zinesters. I'm happy we finally got this one out ~~on time before the end of December~~.

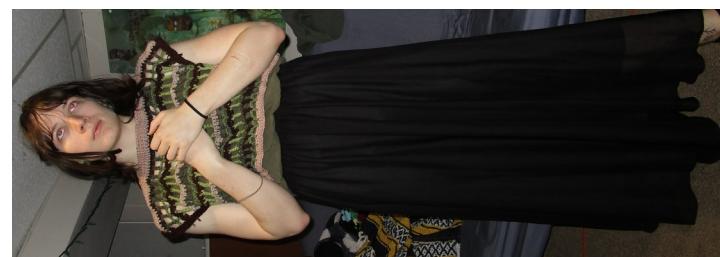

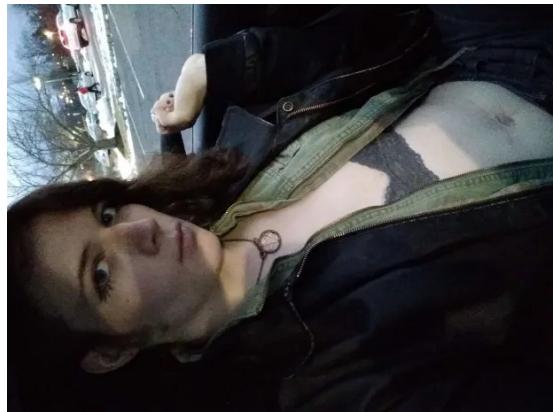

I've had a wonderful first three months being the President of Infinite Zine. I've so thankful for my other council members who've stepped up to help run things. I'm blown away that other people are engaging with this art form. And thank you, reader, for making this all possible!

There's been improvements all over! To the zinemachine, to the submission process, to the org itself! I've even made a short vlog about the behind the scenes (which might get out by this time next year).

Write to zineactiongroupzag@gmail.com with "letter to the editor" somewhere in the subject line!

Six Fluid Genders

0. he/him is dead-nouns. i didnt like the expectations, assumptions, and implications. also i was ██████ about it.

1. any/all was fun but actually im just outsourcing my gender.

2. she/her was fine but didnt fit good either. More assumptions and expectations. i had a will to live now tho.

3. any/all again was fun but people mostly called me she and occasionally he, and never anything else...

4. but then, an older queer artists (for whom i have a shit ton of respect) told me they had assumed they/them for me... and that felt really right... but only for a while. i feel like they/them have gender ideals built from the negative image of two mainstream genders (man - masculinity = person).

5. so when the default options all got boring: did i reject material desire and attain Nirvana? no! i simply find more material to desire: enter xe/xir. surely this will make me happy.

6. damn it/it pronouns got hands
